

Be A Champion For Our Community In 4 Easy Steps

At The Brain Recovery Project, we strive to be the best resource for families considering or whose children have had brain surgery to seizures. But we can't do it alone. We need YOU!

You may not think of yourself as a powerful influencer, but you are. When you share your support of the Brain Recovery Project with your friends, family, and acquaintances, it helps us grow our reach. That means better outcomes for more children with drug-resistant epilepsy, more doctors understanding how to treat children with epilepsy, and more parents empowered to help their children meet their full potential.

Together we can show the world that #ThisFamilyFightsEpilepsy.

Creating your fundraiser for The Brain Recovery Project is easy! Just follow these 4 easy steps and you'll be on your way to becoming a champion fundraiser.

Step 1

Choose How You Will Raise Funds

There are several ways to raise funds:

- Facebook fundraiser
- Link to our Annual Campaign on our website

You can put the "fun" in fundraiser by organizing your campaign around something you enjoy! Start a fitness challenge, host a virtual cocktail party or dinner, or organize a bake sale. Whatever type of fundraiser you create, your enthusiasm will inspire others to help children with drug-resistant epilepsy.

After creating your fundraiser, be the first person to donate to it. People are more likely to give to a fundraiser that has already been supported by others.

Step 2

Share Your Fundraising Campaign

Studies show that people are more likely to donate to a charitable cause if the request comes from someone they know and trust. That's why we can accomplish things together that The Brain Recovery Project could never accomplish alone. After you've chosen what type of fundraiser to create and you've set a fundraising goal for yourself, share your campaign with your family, friends, and community on social media, by email, and via text. Don't forget to explain how The Brain Recovery Project has helped you or someone you care about. Your personal story is a beautiful and powerful fundraising tool!

Be sure to follow The Brain Recovery Project on Facebook and Instagram. We'll be sharing helpful facts and statistics throughout our #ThisFamilyFightsEpilepsy campaign that you can easily share with your community.

Step 3

Thank Your Supporters

Make your supporters feel valued by praising them when they donate to your campaign or share it with others. If you receive a donation from a supporter who wishes to remain anonymous, follow up their donation (if possible) with a private thank-you note or email. Appreciated donors are repeat donors! Be sure to ask your supporters to reach out to their friends, family, and community too, and share their "why" for donating to your cause.

Step 4

Celebrate Your Success With The Brain Recovery Project!

Congratulations! You've successfully created and managed a fundraising campaign that will help The Brain Recovery Project help children with drug-resistant seizures. We are so grateful for your support and want to celebrate your accomplishments with you! Please send us pics and share your story. We want to brag on you and let you know how much you are appreciated!
